

Scott Jackson Biography

Originally from Toronto, Scott got the radio bug as a listener of 1050 CHUM. He enrolled in the radio course at Humber College and began his career working part-time in 1977 at CHEX in Peterborough and then on-air in 1978 at CKLC Kingston.

Since the start, his radio journey has taken him to nine different cities, each for a radio job in various music formats and positions.

A career milestone took place in 1996 when Scott relocated to Nashville for the position of Vice President of Programming and Operations at WAY-FM, the leading Christian radio station in the United States. Here Scott learned the infrastructure of listener supported Christian radio. Upon his returned to Canada in 1997 he began the process to bring LIFE 100.3 to Central Ontario. LIFE 100.3 signed on the air August 15, 1999.

After all those radio adventures, Scott is still on the air at LIFE 100.3, hosting the weekly Retro Show on LIFE 100.3

Scott owns a side company called More Radio, which produces a radio industry magazine twice a year. It also produced "The History of CCM" and the annual "O Canada Radio Superspecial" specifically syndicated to Canadian radio.

"Good To Great – The Radio Version" was Scott's first foray as an author, released August 2010. His second book "Herding Kittens" released April 2016, documents his journey as Band Manager with the award winning Christian recording artist Anthem For Today.

For fun, Scott rides his Specialized Roubaix road bike with Janice. He loves to seadoo, travel and play with his poodle, Summer.

Scott attends Living For Jesus Outreach Ministries in Orillia where he serves percussionist on the worship team.

Scott is married to Janice Baird, his high school sweetheart. Together, they became Christians while living in Pembroke. They have two grown adult children.
